PROJECT 1000

Is designed to Engage Rural Women in fabrication activities aimed to Enhance their Creativity along with starting them on a Journey of Self Employment

PROIE
We Intend for them to develop a Degree of Autonomy that can help them take their Rightful and Respectable Place In Society

What Different This Time

REVIVAL

In the modern day, we are surrounded by over standardised products. With the increase in mechanisation, we have forgotten the charm and aesthetic handmade articles offer.

In light of this thought, we aim to revive the traditional art of weaving on wooden looms wherein, prioritising human artistry and imperfection over mechanical meticulousity renders a unique charm to every product, making them exclusive to both, the weaver and the user. Thus every article is piece of art and not a result of over standardisation.

RECOGNITION

There is an abundance of talent left unemployed in rural India.

The birth of “Project 1000” was mainly due to the recognition of this opportunity for community benefit. By encouraging skill development and creative activity, we are taking a step towards changing the economic narrative of the women from the hinterlands of Maharashtra.

SKILL
DEVELOPMENT
GAINFUL
EMPLOYMENT

Above All

REINVENT

Instead of spoon-feeding charity to the hinterlands, we believe in investing in them and their skillsets. However, the process doesn't end there after having attained mastery in knitting, they are educated in artistic trends in the global market.

Our end goal is that they should be able to independently design and produce products which can compete at the International level.

This is our "Reinvented" definition of a Community Project

Additionally

Real

All product are hand made by rural women who are working for the first time in their lives. All product are 100 percent natural, aligning with our goal of sustainability and eco-friendliness

Recycle

All the fabric, knit wear yarn and cotton which are used for knitting is obtained from up-cycled Factory waste

Rigour

We strictly follow Fair Trade policies and Ethical Practices
